

ABSTRACT

[0060] A luminescence device exhibiting a better luminescence efficiency is provided by disposing between a pair of electrodes a luminescence layer comprising a mixture of a liquid crystal compound assuming discotic phase or smectic phase with a phosphorescent compound preferably having a planar molecular skeleton.